Effectively Manage Business Critical Communications with A Multi-Channel Document Delivery System

Today, companies as well as customers want to choose the communication channel used to deliver and receive their business critical information. Research shows that more and more customers prefer digital communications over traditional mail. ConnectSuite eDelivery is a simple yet powerful cloud-based solution that helps companies manage those preferences and maximize their ability to easily send critical customer communications through traditional mail or an alternate digital channel.

This Powerful Cloud-Based Communication Tool Enables You to:

- Manage customer delivery preferences
- Migrate customers from traditional mail to effective and secure email communication
- Track traditional mail and electronic mail status and events
- Store encrypted documents for customers
- Create and schedule email campaigns
- Easily manage exceptions
- Simplify payment transactions
- Improve cash flow
- Download custom reports

Evolve to Digital Communication while Maintaining Physical Mail Delivery

Determining a digital communication strategy while maintaining physical mail delivery can be a daunting task for any company. ConnectSuite eDelivery is a unique solution that meets this need by allowing companies to continue to send physical mail while enabling recipients to evolve to e-delivery. When recipients select their preferred delivery method, ConnectSuite eDelivery saves their preference and automatically sends documents physically by traditional mail or electronically through email. Better yet, it manages the entire e-consent process and drives adoption through automated opt-in campaigns. Using this proven "PUSH" email delivery method effectively migrates your customers from paper-based communication to electronic delivery – dramatically increasing paper suppression.

Online Payment Capabilities can Simplify Transactions and Reduce Costs

As more recipients switch to electronic mail delivery and paying bills online, senders will achieve significant cost savings on paper, ink and postage. With ConnectSuite eDelivery, customers can utilize a solution that's twice as efficient as traditional physical mail delivery at more than half the cost!

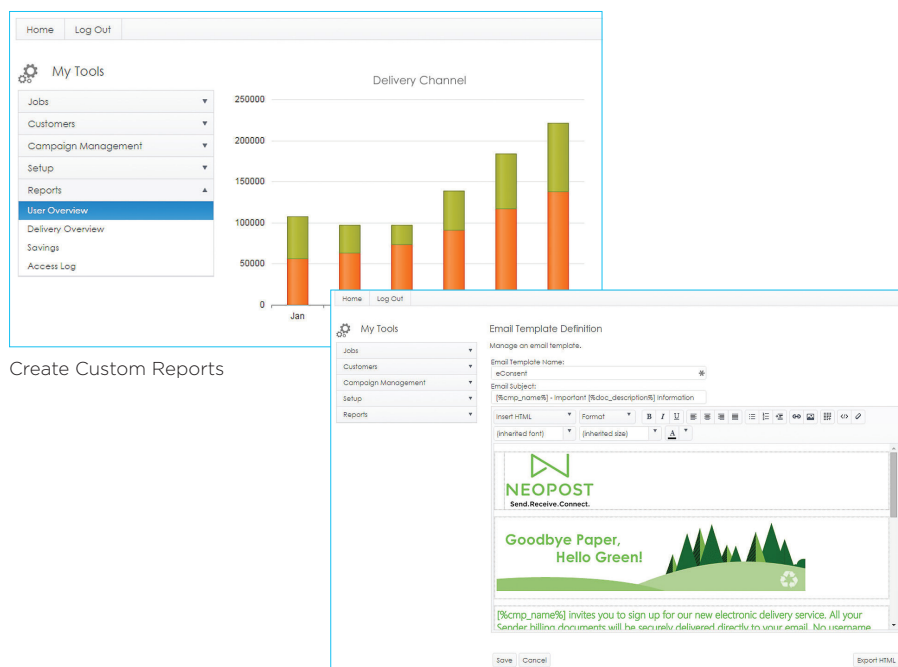

By helping companies adapt to the market's changing needs, ConnectSuite eDelivery simplifies customer communications, helps reduce costs, enhances company image and improves overall customer satisfaction.

Real-Time Reporting Maximizes Electronic Delivery Efficiency

Using an easy-to-read online interface, ConnectSuite eDelivery offers real-time reporting that enables companies to track the status of their electronic customer communications and easily manage exceptions. Robust reporting capabilities provide full audit trail and message tracking that displays customer opt-in status, message type and shows if the email was opened, clicked, delivered or bounced. If an error is displayed, the sender can quickly take action by correcting the email address or switch to physical mail delivery.
